AQUA DE MAGNOLIA.—The prettiest thing, the "sweetest thing," and the most of it for the least money. It ever comes the color of perspiration; softens and adds delicacy to the skin; is a delightful perfume; allays headache and inflammation, and is a necessary companion in the sick-room, in the nursery, and upon the toilet sideboard. It can be obtained everywhere at one dollar per bottle.

S. T.—1860.—X.—The amount of Plantation Bitters sold in one year is something startling. They would fill Broadway six feet high, from the Park to 4th street.—Drake's manufactory is one of the institutions of N. York. It is said that Drake painted all the rocks in the eastern States with his cabalistic "S. T.—1860.—X," and then got the old granny legislators to pass a law "preventing disfiguring the face of nature," which gives him a monopoly We do not know how this is, but we do know the Plantation Bitters sell as no other article ever did. They are used by all classes of the community, and are death on Dyspepsia—certain. They are very invigorating when languid and weak, and a great appetizer.

WHAT DID IT?—A young lady, returning to her country home after a sojourn of a few months in New York, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a rustic, flushed face, she had a soft, ruby complexion, of almost marble smoothness; and instead of 22, she really appeared but 17. She told them plainly she used Hagan's Magnolia Balm, and would not be without it. Any lady can improve her personal appearance very much by using this article. It can be ordered of any Druggist for only 50 cents.

PROF. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all those complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficiency. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore applicable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.

SWEETS OF WOMAN'S LIFE.

BY MARGARET SWAYNE.

A babe at rest on mother's breast,
Too young to smile or weep,
Conscious of naught but mother's love,
So sweet is infant's sleep.

A child at play in meadows green,
Plucking the fragrant flowers,
Chasing the bright wing'd butterflies,
So sweet are childhood's hours.

A maiden fair as early dawn,
Radiant with every grace,
Gladd'ning the eye that looks on her,
So sweet is beauty's face.

A softly blushing, downcast look,
Murmur of startled dove,
Answering another's tender words,
So sweet is maiden's love

A white-robed virgin kneeling low,
Before God's altar bows,
Forever joined two hearts and hands,
So sweet are marriage vows.

A youthful mother bending o'er
Her first-born beauteous boy,
Forever hers till death shall part,
So sweet a mother's joy.

A matron in life's autumn time,
With young life clustered o'er,
Her children's children clasp her knees,
So rich is autumn's store.

An aged form, whose dimming eyes
Foretell departing breath,
Are closed by grateful, loving hands,
So sweet is peaceful death.

Six feet of grass grown flow'ry sod
On earth's kind shelt'ring breast,
Forever freed from grief and pain,
So sweet eternal rest.

SPEAK GENTLY.

"I am entirely at a loss to know what to do with that boy," said Mrs. Burton to her husband, with much concern on her face and in an anxious tone of voice. "I never yield to his imperious temper; I never indulge him in anything; I think about him, and care about him at all times, but see no good results.

While Mrs. Burton was speaking, a bright, active boy, eight years of age came dashing into the room, and, without heeding any one, commenced beating with two large sticks against one of the window sills and making a deafening noise.

"Incorrigible boy!" exclaimed his mother, going quickly up to him, and jerking the sticks out of his hand, "can I not teach you either manners or decency? I have told you a hundred times that when you come into a room where any one is sitting you must be quiet. Get up stairs this moment, and do not let me see your face for an hour!"

The boy became sulky in an instant, and stood where he was pouting sadly.

"Did you hear what I said, get up stairs this moment!"

Mrs. Burton spoke in a very angry tone, and looked quite as angry as she spoke.

Slowly moved the boy toward the door, a scowl darkening his face, that was but a moment before so bright and cheerful. His steps were too deliberate for the overexcited feelings of the mother; she sprang toward him, and seizing him by the arm, pushed him from the room and closed the door loudly after him.

"I declare I am out of all heart!" she exclaimed sinking down upon a chair. "It is line upon line and precept upon precept; but all to no good purpose. That boy will break my heart yet!"

Mr. Burton said nothing, but he saw plainly enough that it was not all the child's fault. He doubted the use of speaking out and saying this unequivocally, although he had often and often been on the point of doing so involuntarily. He knew the temper of his wife so well and her peculiar sensitiveness about everything that looked like charging any fault upon herself that he feared more harm than good would result from an attempt on his part to show her that she was much more than half to blame for the boy's perverseness of temper.

Once or twice the little fellow showed himself at the door but was driven back with harsh words until the hour for tea arrived. The sound of the tea bell caused an instant oblivion of all the disagreeable impressions made on his mind. His little feet answered the welcome summons with a clatter that stunned the ears of his mother.

"Go back Sir!" she said, sternly, as he burst open the dining-room, and sent it swinging with a loud concussion against the wall, "and see if you cannot walk down stairs more like a boy than a horse."

Master Henry withdrew, pouting out his rosy lips to the distance of nearly an inch. He went up one flight of stairs, and then returned.

"Go up to the third story, where you first started from, and come down quietly all the way, or you shall not have a mouthful of supper."

"I do not want to," whined the boy.

"Go up, I tell you, this instant, or I will send you to bed without anything to eat."

This was a threat which former experience had taught him might be executed, and so he deemed it better to submit than pay too dearly for having his own way. The distance to the third story was made in a few light springs, and then he came pattering down as lightly, and took his place at the table, quietly, but silently.

"There—there, not too fast; you have plenty to eat, and time enough to eat it in."

Harry settled himself down to the table as quietly as his mercurial spirits would let him, and tried to wait until he was helped, but in spite of all his efforts to do so, his hand went over into the bread-basket. A look from his mother caused him to drop the slice he had raised; it was not a look in which there was much affection. While waiting to be helped his hands were busy with his knife and fork, making a most unpleasant clatter.

"Put down your hands!" harshly spoken, remedied this evil, or rather sent the active movement from the little fellow's hands to his feet, that commenced a swinging motion, his heels striking noisily against the chair.

"Keep your feet still?" caused this to cease.

After one or two more reproofs, the boy was left to himself. As soon as he received his cup of tea he poured the entire contents into the saucer, and then tried to lift it steadily to his lips. In doing so he spilled one-third of the contents upon the table-cloth.

A box on the ears and a storm of angry words rewarded this feat.

"Have I not told you over and over again, you incorrigible, bad boy, not to pour the whole of your tea into your saucer? Just see what a mess you have made with that clean table-cloth? I declare I am out of all patience with you? Go away from the table this instant?"

Harry went crying away, not in anger, but in grief. He had spilled his tea by accident. His mother had so many reproofs and injunctions to make that the bearing of them all in mind was a thing impossible. As to pouring out all his tea at a time, he had no recollection of any interdiction on that subject, although it had been made over and over again very often. In a little while he came creeping slowly back and resumed his place at the table, his eyes on his mother's face. Mrs. Burton was sorry that she had sent him away for what was an accident; she felt that she had hardly been just to the thoughtless boy. She did not, therefore, object to his coming back, and said, as he took his seat, "Next time see that you are more careful. I have told you again and again not to fill your saucer to the brim; you never can do it without spilling the tea upon the table-cloth."

This was not spoken in kindness.

A scene somewhat similar to this was enacted at every meal; but instead of improving in his behavior the boy grew more and more heedless. Mr. Burton rarely said anything to Harry about his unruly manner, but when he did, a word was enough. That word was always mildly yet firmly spoken. He did not think him a bad boy or difficult to manage—at least he had never found him so. "I wish I knew what to do with that child," said Mrs. Burton, after the little fellow had been sent to bed an hour before his time, in consequence of some violation of law and order; "he makes me constantly feel unhappy. I dislike to be scolding him forever, but what can I do? If I did not curb him in some way there would be no living in the house with him. I am afraid he will cause us a great deal of trouble."

Mr. Burton was silent. He wanted to say a word on the subject, but he feared that its effect might not be what he desired.

"I wish you would advise me what to do, Mr. Burton," said his wife, a little petulantly. "You sit, and do not say a single word, as if you had no kind of interest in the matter. What am I to do? I have exhausted all my own resources, and feel completely at a loss."

"There is a way, which, if you would adopt it, I think might do good." Mr. Burton spoke with a slight appearance of hesitation. "If you would speak gently to Harry, I am sure you would be able to manage him far better than you do."

Mrs. Burton's face was crimsoned in an instant; she felt the reproof deeply; her self esteem was severely wounded.

"Speak gently, indeed!" she replied, "I might as well speak to the wind; I am scarcely heard now at the top of my voice."

As her husband did not argue the matter with her, nor say anything that was calculated to keep up the excitement under which she was laboring, her feelings, in a little while, quieted down, and her thoughts became active. The words, "speak gently," were constantly in her mind, and there was a reproving import in them. On going to bed that night she could not get to sleep for several hours; her mind was too busily engaged in reviewing her conduct toward her child. She clearly perceived that she had too frequently suffered her mind to get excited and angry, and that she was often annoyed at trifles which ought to have been overlooked.

"I'm afraid I have been unjust to my child," she sighed over and over again, turning restlessly upon her pillow.

"I will try and do better," she said to herself as she rose in the morning, feeling but little refreshed from sleep. Before she was ready to her room she heard Harry's voice calling her from the next chamber where he slept. The tones were fretful; he wanted some attendance, and was crying out for it in a manner that instantly disturbed the even surface of the mother's feelings. She was about telling him, angrily, to be quiet until she could finish dressing herself, when the words, "speak gently," seemed whispered in her ear. Their effect was magical; the mother's spirit was subdued.

"I will speak gently," she murmured, and went into Harry, who was still crying out fretfully.

"What do you want, my son," she said in a quiet, kind voice.

The boy looked up with surprise; his eyes brightened, and the whole expression of his face was changed in an instant.

"I cannot find my stockings, mamma," he said.

"There they are, under the bureau," returned Mrs. Burton, as gently as she had at first spoken.

"Oh yes, so they are!" cheerfully replied Harry; "I could not see them anywhere."

"Did you think crying would bring them?

This was said with a smile, and in a tone so unlike his mother, that the child looked up again into her face with surprise that was, Mrs. Burton plainly saw, mingled with pleasure.

"Do you want anything else?" she asked.

"No mamma," he replied cheerfully, "I can dress myself."

This first little effort was crowned with the most encouraging results to the mother; she felt a deep peace settling in her bosom, the consciousness of having gained a true victory over the perverse tendencies of both her own heart and that of her boy. It was a little act, but it was the first fruits, and the gathering, even of so small a harvest, was sweet to her spirit.

For the first time in many months the breakfast table was pleasant to all. Harry never once interrupted the conversation that passed at intervals between his father and mother. When he asked for anything it was in a way pleasing to all. Once or twice Mrs. Burton found it necessary to correct some little fault in manner, but the way in which she did it did not in the least disturb her child's temper, and instead of not seeming to hear her words, as had almost always been the case, he regarded all that was said, and tried to do as she wished.

"There is a wonderful power in gentle words," remarked Mr. Burton to his wife, after Harry had left the table.

"Yes, wonderful indeed; their effect surprises me."

"Love is strong."

Days, weeks, months and years went by; during all this time the mother continued to strive very earnestly with herself, and very kindly with her child. The happiest results followed; the fretful, passionate, disorderly boy became ever-minded and and orderly in his habits. A word gently spoken, was all powerful in its influence for good, but the least shade of harshness would arouse his stubborn will and deform his fair young face.

Whenever mothers complain to Mrs. Burton of the difficulty they find in managing their children, she has one piece of advice to give, and that is, "command yourself, and speak gently."

SOLOMON'S TEMPLE.—There is a charming tradition connected with the site on which the temple of Solomon was erected. It is said to have been occupied in common by two brothers, one of whom had a family; the other had none. On this spot was sown a field of wheat. On the evening succeeding the harvest, the wheat having been gathered in separate shocks, the elder brother said to his wife:

"My younger brother is unable to bear the heat and burden of the day. I will arise, take of my shocks and place them with his, without his knowledge."

The younger brother being actuated by the same benevolent motive, said within himself:

"My elder brother has a family, I have none; I will contribute to their support; I will arise, take my shocks and place them with his, without his knowledge."

Judge of their mutual astonishment when, on the following morning, they found their respective shocks undiminished. This course of events transpired for several nights, when each resolved in his own mind to stand guard and solve the mystery. They did so, when, on the following night they met each other half way between their respective shocks, with their arms full.

Upon ground hallowed by such an association as this was the Temple of Solomon erected—so spacious and magnificent, the wonder and admiration of the world. Alas! in these days how many would sooner steal their brothers' whole shocks, than add to them a single sheaf.

"IT WAS MY BROTHER'S?"—While passing along rapidly up King street, we saw a little boy seated on a curb stone. He was apparently about five or six years old, and his well combed hair, clean hands and face, bright though well patched apron, and whole appearance, indicated that he was the child of a loving though indigent mother. As we looked at him closely, we were struck with the heart-broken expression of his countenance, and the marks of recent tears on his cheek. So, yielding to an impulse which always leads us to sympathize with the joys or sorrows of the little ones, we stopped, and, putting a hand upon his head, asked what was the matter. He replied by holding up his open hand, in which we beheld the fragments of a broken tiny toy—a figure of a cow.

"Oh! is that all? Well, never mind it. Step into the nearest toy-shop and buy another;" and we dropped a four pence into his hand. "That will buy one, will it not?" "Oh!" replied he, bursting into a paroxysm of grief; "but that was little brother Tommy's, and he is dead."

The wealth of the world could not have supplied the vacancy that the breaking of that toy had left in his little heart. It was Tommy's, and he was dead!

[For the Globe.]

Slander.

Of all the strange things on earth, one of the strangest and most pitiable is slander. It has always been a mystery to me how beings, endowed with mind, intellect, and all the grand faculties which God has given them, can deliberately dissect the errors, weaknesses and foibles of their fellow-beings; and especially has it been a wonder to me how woman, who it is presumed possesses delicacy, refinement, gentleness, and all the purer attributes which Heaven assigns her, can take delight in willfully vituperating, censuring and slandering their own companions. Who can estimate the evil done by these slanderers? I have known young men with buoyant hopes, high aspirations, and noble genius, whose increasing efforts bid fair to be crowned with success, when the Sorocco-breath of the vile and envious slanderer crushed every hope, every joy in life. I have known gentle maidens whose heart was joyous, whose clear sparkling eye mirrored a soul free from guile, whose step was light and to whom life seemed a beautiful dream—when lo! the hard, cruel coils of the Gorgon slander, quietly crept around her, and the gentle girl slowly sank, hugging the wounded heart, the blighted hopes, the agony of a crushed spirit to her, till the grave proved the kindest friend and embraced the dear victim. I think as did the philosopher "that in the clear-sighted wisdom of God, there are many inmates of the State prison less morally guilty than the slanderer."

The species of slanderers are so various they can be classified. The first we will call Backbiters; a mean, despicable crew. You meet them unsuspectingly as friends; they greet you with a Judas' kiss; with faces radiant with smiles they fondle, flatter, cringe and caress. You don't know you are taking a serpent to you, whose venomous sting is the herald of the darkest hour of your life. You are no sooner out of their sight than meaning glances are given, base insinuations made, and "did you hear so and so?" and then they fabricate wicked, base tales and accusations, which have no foundation but their own wicked designs; and all this about the being who when present they are "so fond of." O! ye whitened sepulchres, with the black hearts! Slander will have its day, but Right will triumph.

Another class we will call Exaggerators. It may be from envy, hatred, (or Satan knows best what,) but they delight in multiplying small errors, till they become unpardonable crimes. It is another incomprehensible fact to me that some people cannot see another rise, excel, or acknowledge another's superiority in any thing without feeling their heart strings tear; even if all they possess has been obtained by toil and heart-weariness, it is all the same; they hate them because they are more fortunate, and even while they flatter, they are eager to give them the downward push. Ah! I have watched the basilisk eyes of the envious, selfish and malicious plotter, ready to crush every joy of a more favored one; and when one errs, makes one false step, then (I say it sadly) I have seen delicate women, who called themselves christians, who, instead of quieting or making an effort to hush the foul tongue of slander, have themselves, with malice as dark as beings from Inferno, added to the story, aided in spreading the report, and even hinted themselves of dark suspicion, till even if the erring one had hoped to rise, they would be crushed and ruined by their own companions. Strange, God's beings should become so warped, so selfish, so narrow-souled, as to discard all the pure and holy attributes that make earth-angels. Ah! the white robe of Charity drapeth but few! Strange, we forget that we too are liable to err; that we too have foibles. Why not, instead of judging harshly, adding here a little and there a little to the vile tale of slander, gently take the erring one, point to the white temple of repentance, and bid them hope!

The last class we will call Gossipers. They are more harmless, for they are known. They live by gossip; 'tis their highest enjoyment; tattling slander in all form is the slimy, horrid food they feed upon; they grope on in the quicksands of sordidism, and ever will, for ignorance is perverse, and they have not the intelligence to engage in a profitable conversation. Give them a hint, and they will run to a neighboring affinity, and with flashing eye and hurried tone repeat the story, with several additions, ending with a pharisaical smile and exulting look of, "I told you they wasn't as much as they pretended to be!" Ah, me, ye foul vampires, who draw the life-blood drop by drop from your fellow-beings, you will surely meet with just retribution!

GIPSY WILDE.

[For the Globe.]

PINIKEL PINT, December 12.

Mister Edditer:—My muz sed I cood go to town agen, as I had ben good for awile, to hear the Bel Rinkers wich the papers sed were coming, so I fixed meself up in my best, and was jist startin when my muz sed to me,

"Bensy," sez she, "Bensy,"

The shades of nite air fallin past,
You must enter the village fast,
But 'fore yu go, take my advice,
Tu not let fellers thee entice—
Tu see stars full.

Yure fixed now in yure very best,
Let gal-lentry do all the rest.
Sum water stood within my eye,
Wen I sed, if I don't I'll dye
A tryin tu.

As I skuted along I thot how nice it was tu liv in a town. Thare you can go tu the theatre when ever yu want and all the nice things that cum around shows thare, and then yu can take yure gal, and she'll like yu for it. I was sune thare and for fear the star fellers wud git after me agen I hastened to find the pertective influenzes of femail sersiety. I thot I wood be gallant and take a girl to the Bel Rinkers theater. I knowed many of the gude girls and I soon stood tremblin on the door step of one of the best. I pounded the door and it soon opened.

"Sarer Jane," sez I, "Sarer Jane, will you go to the Bel Rinker theatre?"

Sarer looked skeered, her breth came quick and short, her hands trembled and become cold, the blood departed from her cheek, and she sunk softly down on a sofer; then I was skeered.

"Sarer Jane," sez I, "Sarer Jane, did I hurt you?"

"Mister Kruzer," sez she, "Mister Kruzer, I'm not hurt, but I was so taken by supprise. You know, Mister Kruzer, this town ain't like other places; why, here the young men never take the young femails any place, and they allers have to take themselves.—The young men allers call wen thare ain't nothin goin on, exsept wen the girls make cakes and taffy. And wen you axst me to go with you to the consert I wasn't used to it, and any other femail in this town would have fallen the same way; but, Mister Kruzer, sez she, Mister Kruzer, I'm glad in my soul that a new lite is braking on our benighted town, (I wundered if she ment the star lite I hed seen the other nite,) and, sez she, I'll go with yu.

Jist then Sarer's brother came in and sed the Bel Rinkers theatre wouldn't be, 'cause Unkle Jaik woodn't let 'em.

"And Unkle Jaik's guverner of the town, is he?" sez I.

"No," sez Sarer, "no, but you see, Bensy, you see, we're a very poor town, and we can't afford to have a place for the people to meet, only on the korners, and besides thare aren't any room to bild houses. We don't have no konserts or leckturs or metins only on the korners and at the post orfis. The county used to lone us their house, but since Unkle Jaik's guvener they don't do it. O, my poor native town, my poor native town."

Sarer's hed begun to leak, and I felt so bad that I tore meself from the house, and rushed heedlessly thru the dark muddy streets, only konsold by the thot that I had saved a hat dollar.

I disremember much till just by a lite I met a femail who was walking fast too. I was keepin to the right, wich you know is the law of the rode, but she didn't know it, and didn't keep to it, so we was nearly rushin into each other. We both stopt, and stept aside to let the other pass, but it hapent to be the same way and we were still furnenst each other. We both got so flurried that we dodged back and forced into each other's way, till—till I slipt and fell and she walked over me. I ruined my best suit there on that broad pavement jist becaze she didn't know wich side to keep. I raised meself from my inkumbent posishon, and after refusin many invitashuns to step in and hear the Bel Rinkers, I plodded my way to my own native pint, and there, wile the free winds of heaven played with my hair, and the tree frog sang its lonely melody;* there, wile the stars looked camly down on my trubled brow, and the korn stocks pinted their slender columns to the sky; there I vowed I'd pursecute sumbody for damages to my clothes, and I rite to you to know how I'll do it. DRUNKARD'S TESTIMONY.—"Tell me," said a benevolent visitor to a poor drunkard when urging him to abandon the intoxicating cup, "where was it that you took your first steps in this intemperate course?"

"At my father's table," replied the unhappy man. "Before I left home to become an apprentice I had acquired a love for the drink that has ruined me. The first drop I ever tasted was handed me by my now poor heart-broken mother!"

Wintering Farm Animals.

Some farmers treat their horses in winter much as they do their fattening cattle and sheep; they give them abundant food, and but little exercise, keep them in a warm and dimly lighted stable, and if they do but grow fat, with their cattle and sheep, they deem it convincing proof that the proper course has been pursued. Now horses in good working condition, at least, should always be seen on the premises of a good farmer, but his gratitude towards these faithful servants should not induce him, at any time of the year, to stall feed them. The butcher wants thick meat and plenty of tallow in the cattle and sheep, but the plowman looks for strong muscle, spirit and endurance in his team. The food and care of the different animals should be consistent with the ultimate purpose they are to serve. Fat horses that have been wintered mostly in the stable, without much exercise, are not fit for hard service at the opening of the working season in the spring, and a prolific source of disease is the hard work they are frequently compelled to do when they are not in proper condition.

The ordinary winter business of the farmer does not call for much exercise of his team, and if he have several, most of them may be entirely idle. In such cases it is an excellent plan to have a yard for their especial benefit, well littered and safe, and let them have access to it several hours each day. The horses should be unshod, and if any are vicious they may be turned loose at different hours from the others. The horses will show by their playful actions how much they enjoy this temporary relief from the stall. Another very important thing, often neglected by farmers, is the grooming of their teams. In the summer time the horse, by rolling in the pasture, to a certain extent cleans himself; besides, the rains have some effect. But in the stable he relies on the care of his master, and the keen enjoyment the currycomb and brush evidently give him, should amply reward for the labor. A well lighted stable, thoroughly ventilated yet free from currents of air, should also be provided.

In regard to the feed of horses most farmers, we think, will agree to the proposition that it is always good economy to grind or mash all kinds of grain before feeding. It is well established that cut straw, cornstalks, or other coarse fodder fed with some grain is cheaper than to winter the horses wholly on hay. Without stopping to assign reasons, we think they also come out in spring in better condition than when fed on hay alone. Good wheat or oat straw fed with bran strengthened with cornmeal has been found excellent. When the weather is not too cold it is preferable to dampen the cut hay or straw and sprinkle the meal on it.

The wintering of horses should begin with the first approach of cold autumn nights. No work horses should now be left in the pasture except in the day time. Exposure to a single autumn storm might cause damage enough to the farmer's teams to have paid for years of timely care.

Good Farming and Good Crops.

There are seasons when it is next to impossible that good crops can be produced. To be from twelve to thirteen weeks without rain, with a scorching sun prevailing unobstructed, as was the case in many parts of the country in 1852, is a visitation no crop, however well tended, can be expected to hold up against. But those instances are rare. Good cultivation is always more than a match for the common vicissitudes of a season. When we hear a farmer say that the moisture or drought, heat or cold, has played the mischief with this or that crop, we at once suspect that it is his mode of farming that has caused the mischief.

When does John Johnston, the great New York farmer, fail in his crops? When does Charles Williams, of the adjoining county of Montgomery, who in all respects is the equal of Mr. Johnston, fail in his crops? Of course some seasons, from prevailing causes, the crops are better or poorer than in other seasons; but with such farmers, failure is a word they know nothing about.

We have just received a note from a subscriber in the Great Valley, Chester County, Pa., who informs us, that his crops were never better. "But," he adds, "I cannot say as much for my neighbors. Their failure, however, is owing to their own want of attention. They don't cultivate enough. They don't manure enough. They don't drain enough. They are not careful enough in selecting their seed. They don't sow enough to the acre. They don't drill it deep enough to give it a firm rooting before the frost sets in, and thus protect it against what is called winter killing. Many of them spend too much time in the villages, at horse races, public sales, &c. I do not say this invidiously, but only because it is the truth. Good farming almost invariably brings crops. So at least has your humble servant found.—Ex.

MOST EXPEDITIOUS WAY OF FATTENING FOWLS.—Coop them in a moderately warm, dark, quiet place, with good ventilation, and keep them perfectly clean, and feed on boiled or steamed potatoes, mixed with crushed oats or oatmeal, and blended with sweet milk with a little fine sand added, and given warm, but not hot. If in health and well attended, they will be fit for use in a fortnight. They may also get beans, pea, or barley meal mixed with the potatoes.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. SETTLEMENT OF ACCOUNTS.

We are anxious that all indebted to us for subscription to Globe, advertising, printing, books, stationery, etc., etc., should make payment immediately, or not later than the 20th of January next. The first of the year is a good time to square up, and we would feel extremely happy on the first day of the new year if we could then say that all indebted to us now had gave us a friendly call. We desire to keep square with the world and "at peace with mankind," but to do so we must have our own. We will expect those knowing themselves indebted to give this call their immediate attention.

All persons having claims against us will present them for settlement.

The Old Year.

The old year is rapidly passing away, and we feel thankful that the Globe, although it has passed through a rough political storm, is still in a healthy condition. During a part of the past year our political course was such as to sour the feelings of many personal and political friends, but we had no idea of being swallowed up by the old "Democratic organization" or driving Union or Republican office-holders to the support of what they denounce as "Copperhead" organs and "Copperhead" principles. We shall stand by what we believe and know to be Union principles; ingrates and mere seekers after office can enjoy their rights.—There are other interests than that of office-seeking in which the people, irrespective of party, are interested. The rebellion was not crushed in a day, neither was it crushed by the patriotism of men of one party only. There can be no permanent prosperity, permanent happiness, or permanent Government, but by cultivating and adhering to liberal Union sentiments. The independent and free people of the county have our thanks for their continued patronage.

Why Should Women not Vote?

The question of giving the right to vote to women is now fairly before the country. It is being favored by some of the most distinguished gentlemen in the United States Senate. We are strongly inclined to favor female suffrage. One thing is certain, better men would be elected to office if women could have a vote. They would be down on any man who should attempt to make himself popular by "treating all hands," unless the treat should be a silk dress, a barrel of flour, or something of the kind. The Lager Beer candidates would be nowhere.

Senator Wade on Female Suffrage.

The following letter was read at the recent meeting of the American Equal Rights Association:

JEFFERSON, Ohio, Nov. 14, 1866.

Susan B. Anthony Secretary American Equal Rights Association:

MADAM:—Yours of the 9th inst., is received, and I desire to say in reply, that I am now and ever have been the advocate of equal and impartial suffrage to all citizens of the United States who have arrived at the age of twenty-one years, who are of sound mind, and who have not disqualified themselves by the commission of any offence, without any distinction on account of race, color or sex. Every argument that ever has been or ever can be adduced to prove that males should have the right to vote applies with equal if not greater force to prove that females should possess the same right; and were I a citizen of your State, I should labor with whatever ability I possess to engraft these principles in its constitution.

Yours very Respectfully,
B. F. WADE.

Theodore Tilton on Woman's Rights.

OHIO, December 4, 1866.

Susan B. Anthony—My! Friend:—I cannot be at the meeting. I am like a partridge; I am wandering over the prairies. But were I at Cooper Institute, I would claim the ballot for women as for men. It is said that women don't want their political rights. This may be true of some women. But the one woman whose rights I am most bound to respect is an American citizen, who wants the American citizen's ballot. While other men, therefore, may have reasons for indifference towards woman's right of suffrage, not only sound principle but gentlemanly courtesy make it my duty to break my ballot in twain, like my daily loaf, and share it equally with my wife.

I am yours truly,
THEODORE TILTON.

Lancaster has had another earthquake. The Express of Monday evening says:—At about eleven o'clock last night a sound resembling that produced by thunder or a wagon passing slowly over a bridge, was heard in this city. If thunder, it must have been from a cloudless sky, as not a speck besides the stars was visible in the heavens at the time. The phenomenon was different from that experienced here last year, as no quivering of buildings and other objects accompanied the report.

FROM WASHINGTON.

In the U. S. Senate on the 11th, Senators Anthony, Cowan, Wilson, Wade and Yates, advocates female suffrage. Mr. Wade declared that negroes would vote in every State in the Union before the 4th of March 1869. Mr. Yates contended that the people had spoken at the late election and declared in favor of negro suffrage.

On the 12th a vote was taken in the Senate on Cowan's amendment to give the women a right to vote, and it was voted down by a vote of 37 to 9.

Thaddeus Stevens said in the House on the 11th, that he did not believe Jeff. Davis could be tried for treason, nor that he had been guilty of treason. His offence was that of a belligerent, not of a traitor. Mr. Stevens' proposition that every man appointed by the President and rejected by the Senate shall be disqualified for holding any office for a year was voted down by an almost unanimous vote.

Mr. Rodgers, Democrat, of New Jersey, is strong in the faith. In concluding a speech in the House on the 12th, he used the following language: "God Almighty in eternity will write in letters of gold, upon the front of the altar of Christianity, the name of Andrew Johnson as the one pure patriot of these troublous times." This was received with shouts of laughter on the radical side of the House.

The bill giving the negroes the right of suffrage in the District of Columbia, passed the Senate on the 13th by a vote of 32 to 13. The section conferring suffrage is as follows:

SEC. 1. That from and after the passage of this act each and every male person, excepting paupers and persons under guardianship, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, who has not been convicted of any infamous crime or offense, and excepting persons who may have voluntarily given aid and comfort to the rebels in the late rebellion, and who shall have been born or naturalized in the United States, and who shall have resided in the said District for the period of one year, and in the ward or district in which he may offer to vote three months next preceding any election therein, shall be entitled to the elective franchise, and shall be deemed an elector, and entitled to vote at any election in said district without any distinction on account of color or race.

The politicians at Washington are busy manufacturing a United States Senator to take the place of Mr. Cowan. Mr. Forney's chances being slim, declines in favor of Mr. Stevens. It will take a heavy pressure to defeat Mr. Cameron—he's got the "ding bats."

A long list of appointments were sent into the Senate on Thursday by the President, for confirmation.

Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, has reported to the House of Representatives, from the Committee on the Judiciary, a bill which provides that "until the law-making power of the United States shall have declared the several portions of the United States heretofore represented in Congress as the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas are restored to their political relations to the Union they shall not be entitled to representation in the electoral college for the choice of President and Vice President of the United States, and that no electoral vote shall be received or counted from them, except as each may hereafter be so declared restored to its political relations to the Union and entitled to representation in Congress."

Three or four important propositions for the reconstruction of the Southern States are now before Congress. Mr. Spalding proposes only to exact the ratification of the pending Amendment with evidence superadded that the forms of local Government are "not inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States." The chance to return on those conditions is offered, and the purpose of Congress in affording it is to be declared. The inference is, that the South may not be restored; the sole certainty being that it cannot escape the jurisdiction of the Federal Government or the obligations it imposes, nor evade the penalties inseparable from exclusion.

Mr. Stevens, on the contrary, asserts that the Southern States are States no more—that they ceased to be such, as members of the Union, when their citizens rebelled against Union authority—that they are destitute of properly organized Governments, and that the United States, having subdued the rebellion, is called upon to provide for the organization of local civil authority.

The resolutions of Mr. Sumner affirm "the jurisdiction of Congress over the whole subject." They further declare the illegality of the existing Governments in rebel States, the absence of all rights on their part to representation in Congress or to vote on constitutional amendments, and "the duty of Congress to proceed with the work of reconstruction" on a certain indicated principle.

Mr. Julian has introduced a bill providing for civil Government for the districts lately in revolt against the United States. The bill provides for temporary Territorial Governments for all the late rebel States except Tennessee; suffrage being given to all males without respect to color; and all who have borne arms against the United States, or held civil or military office under the Confederacy, to be ineligible either to hold office or to vote. The bill was referred to the Committee on Reconstruction.

About thirty Senators and Representatives met at the Capitol on Thursday night and organized a Congressional prayer-meeting.

The District suffrage bill passed the House on Friday as it came from the Senate, by a vote of 117 to 46. All the Democrats and eight Republicans voting against it. The President will veto the bill, but it will be passed over his head by a two third vote and become a law.

The passage of the suffrage bill is already beginning to stir up a commotion amoung the local politicians. The average vote for Mayor of Washington during the war amounted to 6,000, with an overwhelming Democratic majority. The addition of quite as many votes from the newly enfranchised blacks, when the bill becomes a law, all of which it is believed will for some time be cast for the Republican ticket, gives new hope to the minority. Although the next municipal election does not occur until June, 1867, it is quite likely that the canvass will be immediately commenced.

A petition fifty-two feet long, containing the names of nearly all the prominent citizens of New Mexico, has been forwarded to Washington, praying for an increase of the military force in that Territory, as being absolutely necessary to protect the lives and property of the people against the Indians.

Several Senators and members have considered the propriety of urging in the Joint Committee on Reconstruction, the reporting of a joint resolution declaring as the sense of Congress that the Constitutional Amendment is the finality of the basis of restoration, and that in the event of its ratification no other terms will be demanded by this Congress of the Southern States. It is urged that this be done to relieve the doubts in the premises set forth in the Southern Legislatures, where the ratification of the Amendment has just been refused. The opposition to this proceeding is based on the ground that the amendment speaks for itself as the basis of a settlement, and that the faith of Congress is pledged to stand by it. A declaratory resolution of the the character referred to, is already before the House part of the Reconstruction Committee.

[From the Chicago Republican, Dec. 4.]

John H. Surratt.

The cable dispatch from Mr. Hale, the U. S. consul at Alexandria, Egypt, to the State Department at Washington, announcing the arrest of John H. Surratt, one of the assassins of President Lincoln, recalls with painful vividness the crime in which he was a principal actor, and adds a new instance to the many which the history of crime furnished of the almost unerring certainty with which justice seeks out the criminal.

Young Surratt is the son of Mrs. Mary E. Surratt, who was found guilty by a military commission of having been engaged in the conspiracy that resulted in the murder of President Lincoln, for which she was hung at Washington on the 7th of July, 1865, at the same time with the conspirators Payne, Atzeroth and Harold. It was at the house of the woman, as shown by the testimony before the commission, and the confession of Atzeroth, that the most of the details of the assassination were arranged, and next to J. Wilkes Booth, the principal assassin, Surratt appears to have been the most active spirit engaged in the conspiracy. He was the familiar friend and companion of Booth for weeks before the assassination, meeting him frequently at the house of Mrs. Surratt, and holding protracted secret interviews with him in his own room.

One of the plans of the assassins was to abduct President Lincoln while riding out, but this failing, Surratt made a sudden visit to Montreal. It was also in evidence before the commission which tried the conspirators, that, within, a few weeks previous to the assassination, he had made a trip to Richmond. While there, he claimed to have had interviews with Davis and Benjamin, and on his return was confident in his declaration that the rebel capital would not be evacuated.

The fact of his visit to Richmond was one of the circumstances which went to connect Davis and other rebel leaders with the assassination conspiracy. He was present in Washington the day before the murder of the President, and is believed to have borne an important part of the atrocious affair, but was never seen in the city again. Conscious of his guilt, he fled from the scene of his crime, as is believed leaving Washington early on the morning of the 15th of April, going by way of Phila. and New York to Springfield, Massachusetts, where he was delayed a day in consequence of the failure of the train to connect

From Springfield he went by rail to Burlington, Vt., where taking his supper, he dropped his handkerchief with his name marked upon it, but the fact was known too late to effect his arrest. Arriving at St. Albans, he is reported to have left the train, proceeding on foot to Canada, making his way, finally, partly on foot and partly by rail to Montreal. Here he was secreted for some time by rebel sympathizers, but was reported at the time to have been seen near a monastery, where he disappeared.

Since that time nothing has been known of his whereabouts until a few days ago a European dispatch announced that he had been discovered serving as a private soldier in the Papal army. He was arrested, but, succeeding in making his escape, he next appears upon the scene in Egypt. The fact that an order had been sent to have him conveyed to the United States by one of our war vessels now in European waters, indicates that he is safe in the hands of United States officers. It is not improbable that his capture and trial may lead to new and startling developments of facts connected with the assassination conspiracy.

Inauguration of Gen. Geary.

A committee of the boys in blue of Harrisburg have issued an eloquent address to the boys in blue of Pennsylvania, inviting them to be present at the Inauguration of the Governor elect of Pennsylvania, Maj. Gen. John W. Geary. After reciting the victories won in the field, the address concludes as follows:

"It is therefore fitting that we assemble ourselves together at the State Capital at the time above specified, and ratify by our presence the political victory we have lately won, and make stronger and brighter those links which bind us together in the circle of a sacred companionship.

"All those organizations or associations which may see fit and proper to attend on the occasion specified will please correspond with the committee at as early a date as convenient.

A private letter received here states that the only surviving descendant of Christopher Columbus is shortly to visit America. He will surely see more sights than Christopher did. We hope his stay will be pleasant.

Bombay and Calcutta, on opposite sides of the peninsula of Hindoostan, are connected by a railway one thousand miles long, and which is traversed by trains in about four days.

Two merchants of Boston have disappeared leaving liabilities behind them to the amount of $175,000, and assets to the amount of nine pair of boots and a hoop skirt. They might as well made as much use of the skirt as a certain fugitive named Jeff Davis did.

A nicely dressed man went into a gambling saloon in Brenham, Texas, and lost all his money, then his coat, his vest and pantaloons, his boots, stockings, and shirt, until he finally left the house stark naked. He ought to have been completely "skinned."

The Young Men's Christian Association, of Brooklyn, has 3,000 members, a library and reading room, and gives a course of lectures. It also supplements the churches, and does much of their neglected work. We would like to see such an association here.

A good story is told of a clergyman not far from Titusville, who has lately invested considerably in oil. In giving out his text one morning, he said it would be found in the last chapter of Acts, the last verse, and the last half of the verse, and one-third of the oil!

There are in the United States 36,000 miles of railway, which cost $1,380,000,000. In Europe there are 30,000 miles, which cost $3,500,000,000. The length of the European telegraph wires is 60,000 miles, whilst in the United States there are 90,000 miles.

During the month of November, sixty-six emigrant vessels of all classes arrived at New York from Europe, bringing 3,144 cabin and 17,863 steerage passengers, making a total of 21,007 souls. On the voyage there were 18 births and 221 deaths.

The Detroit Advertiser states that quite a large number of the fashionable ladies of that city "make their own shoes," but the editor laments that this is done because it is fashion, not economy." This is, in our opinion, the best road for fashion to take to make itself commendable, and we hope it success.

An indignant mother found her hopeful daughters in a low place of amusement in Chicago the other night, and, taking each by the hair of the head, led them out of the house to the great astonishment of the spectators. What father has the same amount of courage. Wonder if the ladies' beaux witnessed the leading out feat?

The Methodist centenary contributions continue to flow into the treasury in liberal volume. Last week, according to the Methodist, the sums reported reached half a million for the week. Six Boltimore churches contributed over 40,000. In Detroit, $20,000; in Columbus, Ohio, one church, $17,550.

A merchant of Philadelphia, who dined for many years on a herring and a cracker, recently died, leaving several thousand dollars. We have heard of men trying to live on "herring soup" but we never could believe it. Such a diet may be good for dyspeptics, but as for us give us ye smoking dinners with plenty of gravy.

The colored "citizens" of Indiana have resolved "that we demand that all words and clauses which mark distinction between men, on account of color, be stricken out of statute books." If they had sent their demands to their friends in Congress they would have told them there was no necessity for being so importunate, as all that is being attended to.

The Tennessee House of Representatives have voted against a bill, 33 against 26, providing for the organization and maintenance of free common schools in the State. There are 78,000 adult whites in Tennessee who cannot read or write. We think a knowledge of the latter fact, of itself, should have convinced the fogiest of the legislators to vote for the measure.

No less than two thousand men are digging at the newly discovered mines at Pino Alto, in New Mexico, and are said to be well paid. A lucky fellow dug up one chunk valued at over two hundred dollars, and the rush to the mines from lower New Mexico was great. How prone man is to rush after that which glitters, but how often is he deceived.

"Never be critical upon the ladies," was the maxim of an old Irish peer, remarkable for his homage to the sex; "the only way in the world that a true gentleman ever will attempt to look at the faults of a pretty woman is to shut his eyes." This may be true; but how is a poor fellow going to "go it blind" when he embraces some fair lady form?

A young and pretty lady traveling from Louisville to Nashville the other day, was observed to have a piece of court plaster on her lip. When the cars emerged from one of the tunnels into the light it was discovered clinging to the lips of a young man who occupied the seat with her. They both looked as innocent as if they "hadn't been doin' nothin."

At a newspaper office in Sydney, Australia, is a tablet informing visitors that the editor cannot be spoken to unless paid for his time. Persons desiring an audience are invited to buy a ticket of admission at the door of the waiting room—one hour costing ten shillings; half an hour, six shillings; fifteen minutes, three shillings. This would be considered pomposity or tyranny if adopted in America.

The correspondent of the New York Tribune says: "Schenck's bill, to repeal the bill of the last session of Congress increasing the pay of members, was referred. An amendment to make members refund all the increased compensation already received created loud laughter." Such a proposition was an extremely good joke, but the members "can't see it" to give their money back.

There is a frightful mystery and rapidity about the hog-killing process in Chicago.—The animal is introduced from the top of the building, where all the pens are located, to which he is driven up an inclined plane.—When he goes forth it is only in barrels to feed the hungry. The road which the animal passes through is various and ingenious. One of these establishments despatches 1500 hogs per day.

It is estimated there are at present about 1,250,000 Free and Accepted Masons scattered upon the face of the globe. Of this number some 150,000 are in England, 100,000 in Scotland, and 50,000 are in Ireland. There are about 600,000 on the continent of Europe, 400,000 in the United States, and 50,000 in other parts of the world. In England there are two or three thousand persons initiated every year.

The Parisian hair dressers recently held their annual ball and laid down the future fashion as to the hair. The rage for false hair shows no abatement, and ladies' heads are still to be loaded down with some one else's tresses. The front hair is drawn back and lifted up from the forehead in puffs and rolls, the back hair spread out into an enormous lump and tied up. We have no comment to make about the ladies' fashions, because some like it and others don't.

There has been formed in Paris a much needed Humane Society for the protection of infants. It is calculated that 15,000 children die every year in the neighborhood of Paris for want of proper care, and 100,000 in the whole of France. This is in a great part due to the habit of putting children out to nurse where they are neglected or abused.—Why is it that some mothers have such a cold love for their own offspring? They seem to forget that the soul of the little cherub is immortal, and that its early training will tell for its future weal or woe.

NO PAPER NEXT WEEK.

As all the printers of the town have agreed to suspend operations for a week during the holidays, there will not be any papers issued next week.—Printers will have time for pleasure as well as other folks.

Brief Items.

—A cheap and good present for children, is a book; a fine assortment for the Holidays may be found at Lewis' Book Store.

—Although we have not yet butchered, we have several messes of sausage and pudding sent us by good friends. They will please accept our thanks.

—One hundred and fifty-six pupils were ordered to be admitted to the Cassville Soldiers Orphans School, in this county, up to December 1, 1866.

—A concert for the benefit of the M. E. Sabbath School at Hopewell will be given at that place on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, December 19 and 20. It promises to be a success.

—The valuable business stand now occupied by Cunningham & Etnier, together with the shops to the west, will be offered at public sale on the 3d of January next. See advertisement.

—Mr. John Barrick, of this place, killed a wild turkey last week weighing 21½ pounds. The hunters have killed more of this game this year than in former years, owing either to better luck or plenty of turkeys.

—We learn that a few of our citizens have invested in the Crosby Prize Concert. If they draw anything they don't expect we will let our readers know, providing we get the information, which we desire.

—The Monitor appeared last week, having enlarged to a seven column paper. Mr. Cornman deserves credit for the degree of enterprise and mechanical ability he has evinced since taking charge of that journal. The Journal & American will also be enlarged this week.

—Young men will be looking around for something nice, and not expensive, as a present to the young ladies. They should call and examine the assortment of perfumery at Lewis' Book Store. Other articles, such as pocket-books, pocket knives, spectacles, etc., will be found there very suitable for Holiday presents.

—The following eccentric marriage notice appeared in Saturday's issue of the Pittsburg Republic: At the residence of Mr. Edward Cowling, Thursday evening, December 13th, 1866, by the Rev. Grampton, Mr. Wm. Bulling to Miss Maria Cowling, both of Allegheny city. What strange names some people do have.

—The Catholic Fair, which opened in Altoona on last Monday, will continue for some time, and is quite a magnificent affair. The display is really creditable and the attendance large.—The special prizes—Firemen's trumpet, silver mounted bat, and ball, and a set of drawing instruments, are creating a great excitement.

—Glycerine is recommended to prevent the freezing of Gas Meters in winter, as well as the evaporation of the water in the meter. One or two pints of glycerine well mixed with the water, are sufficient for a middle sized meter, but the quantity must be increased in proportion to the degree of cold to which the meter is expected to be exposed.

—The Holidays are coming. Tuesday next will be Christmas. The different confectionaries in this place, of which we have a superabundance, show signs of having prepared for a rush of custom, and their windows are tastefully decorated with the odds and ends that please the eye and tickle the fancy of the little ones. A little liberal advertising would have operated to their advantage.

—The first best snow of the season fell on Sunday last. It fell to the depth of a foot or more. There was a general hunt for sleigh-bells, and perhaps an extra feeding to ponies, in anticipation of the undying pleasure of a country sleigh-ride. And, indeed, what is more pleasant than flying o'er the snow, listening to the tinkling of the bells and the whispers of the belles?

—Mr. John Saxton, senior editor of the Canton (Ohio) Repository, brother of Mr. James Saxton, a resident of this place, set type on the President's message from eight o'clock until midnight, putting up in that time 3,500 ems. He is now in his seventy fifth year, and has published his Repository continuously for the period of nearly fifty-two years. He has helped to produce every issue of the paper from the period it was started in 1814 till the present time.

Explosion and Narrow Escape.

One of the large steam pipes at the big rolling mill exploded one day last week in consequence of some defect in the metal. Several sections of the pipe, which run along the frame-work of the building overhead, were torn loose from their fastenings and precipitated to the floor beneath. Fortunately no person was injured, though the engineer made a narrow escape—a section of the pipe crashing through the roof the engine house and striking in the very spot where he had been standing only a moment previous, and from which he had just turned to get the oil can. His escape from serious injury, if not instant death, was a miraculously narrow one. The damage has been repaired and the works are again in operation.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

Matrimonial Market.

The Matrimonial market, remarks an exchange, about this time of year is pretty firm, but the different qualities of stock thrown upon the market makes the "fluctuations" frequent. "Sweet sixteens" are active, but not up to the demand, and "go off" at previous figures. Lasses of "twenty" "brisk," and sales are more "lively." Misses "of age" weak and fully up to the demand. Unmarried aunts are on the decline. Old maids are active and the market is stocked. Bachelors, in swallow tailed coats, seedy and disconsolate. Spruce bachelors, of thirty, steady, with a prospect of a few sales. Young and fascinating "swells" in good demand, and sales are quoted at "handsome figures." The market closes very brisk with heavy stock on hand.

The President's Message.

We are gravely informed from Washington, that the Speakers of the House and Senate have a new and novel way of clearing the galleries of their respective Houses. Whenever the crowd becomes noisy the Speakers order the Clerk to read the President's last message, when the galleries are emptied in less than no time, but that has nothing to do with the great reduction in prices of all kinds of goods, at the Mammoth Store of S. E. Henry & Co's. Call and be convinced of the very low prices they are selling goods at. They keep constantly on hand a full stock of Dry Goods, Ladies Coats, Furs, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Groceries, Iron, Nails, Stoves, &c., &c. 1t.

Dull Times.

All men are complaining of dull times—perhaps it is because of a want of confidence in one another—or a neglect to live up to the golden rule, "do unto others as you would have others do unto you." Some men who live and expect to live off the citizens of the town and country, because they think they save a penny, make their purchases from strangers who have no interest in the success of any of our business men or the property of our town. Help yourself by helping to build up the business of others at home.

OUR DEVIL'S WISH.

To all we know, and all we don't,
(Will we be partial? no, we wont;)
Both rich and poor, and big and small;
Fat, lean, lazy; the short and tall;
Jew and Gentile; saint and sinner;
Sad; lonely; loser and winner;
Gay; happy; lover and loved one;
Merchant; farmer; those lost, and won;
To each and all, young and old, far and near,
A merry Christmas and happy New Year.
OUR DEVIL.

Christmas and Holiday Presents.

Persons wishing a good Piano, (Steinway & Sons, or any make) Mason & Hamlin's Cabinet Organ, Melodeon, or one of the celebrated family Sewing Machines manufactured by Grover & Baker, as a Christmas or Holiday Present for their friends should call at B. M. Greene's Music Store, Huntingdon, Pa., and examine his stock, as they can save money by so doing. Send for a circular.

Prepare for the Holidays.

A fresh supply of choice Cranberries, Prunes, Raisins, Figs, Dates, etc., etc., Canned Fruit, Vegetables and Oysters, Spiced Lobsters and Oysters, Dried Peaches and Apples. Sweet Table Cider, Sauces, etc., etc., etc., and Groceries of all kinds. Call at Lewis' Family Grocery.

Service at Episcopal Church, Christmas.

There will be the usual service at St. John's Church on the evening of Christmas day, when the Rev. Mr. Barrow will preach a sermon suitable to the occasion. There will be no service next Sunday, but on the following Sunday.

Selling off at Cost.

The Gleasons at Barnet, this county, are selling off their immense stock of desirable goods at actual cost. Persons desiring to get goods cheap should patronize this fair dealing firm. Read the prices in their advertisement.

☞ This is the season of the year when men are forced to think about warm clothing, and nine out of every ten inquire for the largest and best stock to select from. To find it go to H. Roman's, opposite the Franklin House. *

DISASTROUS FIRE.—On Thursday afternoon last, a frame building on Caroline street, between Virginia and Emma streets, known as Runyeon's Cabinet shop, but lately occupied by Mr. Adams, as a rustic window blind manufactory, was discovered to be on fire. Before anything could be done to check the flames, they burst out through the windows, and soon the whole building was enveloped. The lower floor was used as a paint room, and there was a considerable quantity of oil, turpentine, &c., on hand, which added to the fury of the flames. The second story was used for drying blinds, and was at the time hanging full of blinds newly painted. Between this building and the alley was a small frame tenement, occupied as a dwelling by James McKee. The flames immediately communicated with it, and the occupants had barely time to save their wearing apparel and a few light articles of furniture.

The Blind manufactory and tenant house, were owned by the heirs of Abram Beale, dec'd, and were insured for $500. This does not cover the loss. The stock in the blind manufactory was insured for $3,000, but we are informed that Mr. Adams had some $5,000 stored therein. How the fire originated is not known.—Altoona Tribune.

DON'T LIKE IT.—Hon. A. A. Barker, the present Congressman from this District, in a communication to the Johnstown Tribune, from Washington, has the following in reference to the recent banquet to the Congressmen:

"I attended the banquet in the evening. It was well gotten up, and came off in the Fair Building, at the corner of Pennsylvania Avenue and Seventh Street. The attendance was large, and the collation was abundant, varied and luxurious. Some things might have been dispensed with. Wines and liquors on such occasions do no good, but in my judgment do a great deal of harm. This mingling of wines and strong drinks on festive occasions is a custom that ought to be frowned upon by all lovers of humanity and good order."

WHOLESALE MARKET.

SATURDAY, Dec. 15.—There is a firm feeling in the Flour Market, and a steady demand for home consumption, but no inquiry for shipment. Holders in some instances advanced their rates 25c. ℔ bbl. Sales of 1000 bbls., chiefly Northwestern extra family, at $11@12 50, including Pennsylvania and Ohio extra family at $12 25@13 50, fancy at $14.50@16, extras at $9@10 50, and superfine at $8 50. Rye Flour may be quoted at $7 25 ℔ bbl.

There is no feature to present in the Wheat Market, and in the absence of sales we quote at $2,65@2,85 for Pennsylvania red; $2,90@3,10 for Southern do; and $3,20 @3,30 for white. Rye is held at $1,20@1,40 ℔ bushel. In Corn there was less doing; sales of new yellow at 95c.@1; and old do. at $1.15@1,17. Oats remain without change; sales at 58c. ℔ bushel.

Cloverseed is quiet and lower; sales at $9@9,62½ ℔ 64 pounds. Prime Timothy is worth $3,75, Flaxseed ranges from $2,90 to $3.

PITTSBURGH, Dec 15.—FLOUR—There will be an advance on Monday on wheat flour, by some of our dealers, of from 25 to 30c per bbl. The indications point to a general advance. Prices to-day were unchanged. Buckwheat flour is in light demand. Small sales from store are reported at $4,50.

GRAIN—The receipts of wheat continues light, and there are no sales reported. Prices remain nominally unchanged from what they were for some time back. We note sales of 200 bushels ear corn from store, at 25c; 300 bushels barley, from first hands, at 95c@$1,00. Small sales of oats were made at 52cts.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—FLOUR—The Flour market is 15 @25c. Better. Sales of 10,000 bbls. of Superfine State, $7.85@9,60; Extra State, $10,25@10.75; Choice do., $10,85@11,65; Superfine Western, $7,55@9,70; Extra Western, $9@11,10; Choice do, $11,25@12,50; Round Hoop Ohio, $10,50; Trade brands, $11,70@12,40. Southern Flour is firmer; sales of 650 bbls. of common, $10,90@12,75; Fancy and Extra, $12,80@16,50.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 15.—Flour is firm, and a fraction higher for medium and extra grades. Wheat is stiffer at $2.60@ 2,65 for prime fall, and $2,80 for choice white. Corn is dull, and closed lower, at 89@93c for new, and 92c@$1 for old. Oats are firm at 71@75c. Provisions are firm. Hogs are higher, at $6,00@6,90, the latter very heavy.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 15,—Flour closed firmer, and in some cases an advance of 25 cents was obtained for medium grades; superfine, $9,50@10. Hogs opened firm, at $7,25 @7,50, net, and closed weak; indications of liberal supplies next week make packers hold back. Lard is dull, at 12 cents, and very little demand.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Flour firmer, and 15@25 cents higher. Wheat firmer, at an advance of 1@2 cents on No. 1, and 2@3 cents on No. 2 closing at $2,10 for No. 1 and $1,87 for No. 2. Corn dull at 80¼ cents for No. 1 and 76½ @77½ cents for No. 2. Green shoulders, 5½@5¾ cents. Hams 9 cents.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 15.—Wheat firm; sales of Red at $3,00 @3,10; White, $3,10@3,25. Corn, new White, at 95@98; Yellow, 98@$1. Oats closed firm at 56@58c. Rye quiet at $1,25@1,30.

MEDICAL ELECTRICITY.

Wonderful Scientific Discovery

For the Treatment of Acute and Chronic Diseases.

The undersigned would respectfully call the attention of the afflicted females of Huntingdon county, and the adjoining counties, that I have taken instruction in the correct application of Electricity, and am now fully prepared to operate successfully for the cure of persons affected with the following named diseases, viz:

General Debility,	Neuralgia,
Kidney Complaints.	Nervous Diseases;
Liver "	Female Weakness,
Spinal Affection,	Piles and Gravel,
Costiveness,	Bronchial Affection,
Foul Stomach,	Dyspepsia,
Rheumatism,	Headache,
Diseases of the Womb,	Diabetes,
Suppressed Menses,	Goiter, or Big Neck.

Female patients can receive treatment at my residence for any of the above diseases with the wonderful discovery of Electricity; which is without a parallel, and the very desideratum for the afflicted. Please give us a trial. It is a mild operation, producing no shock or unpleasant sensation, and relieves where medicine has no effect at all.

DR. LEON'S

CELEBRATED PREPARATIONS.

THE PERFECTION OF MEDICAL SCIENCE.

Dr. Leon's Electric Hair Renewer.

It is a positive cure for Baldness.
It restores Gray Hair to its original color.
It is a Tonic, not a Dye, and acts upon the secretions.
It immediately arrests falling out of the hair.
It alleviates Neuralgia and Headache.
It radically cures Dandruff and Humors.
It keeps the scalp healthy, clean and cool.
It is an elegant and exquisitely fragrant Hair Dressing
It restores, cultivates and beautifies the hair.
It makes harsh hair flexible and lustrous.

Dr. Leon's Electric Hair Renewer has enjoyed a high local reputation for many years. Its wonderful restorative and invigorating properties are well known to the Medical Faculty of Philadelphia.

Being fully satisfied of the merits of Leon's Electric Hair Renewer we have procured exclusive ownership and are determined that every household in our land shall have opportunity to reap its benefits.

DR. LEON'S INFANT REMEDY.

A most delicious and efficacious cure for the various ills to which Infants and Young Children are subject.

Invaluable for Teething Children!

It softens the gums, abates inflammation, invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and is a sure and speedy cure for Colic, Cramps and Windy Pains.

A most excellent preparation for children of a restless and fretful habit, and in all cases of Looseness, Griping, Vomiting, or other inward grief, it gives immediate ease.

Used for more than half a century in the private practice of one of the most eminent physicians of Philadelphia.

In now placing this article within the reach of all our countrymen, we would remark that we know it to be a Remedy of unrivaled excellence and that it has proved in thousands of cases, as we are resolved it shall in millions, a priceless boon.

NEW BOUNTY LAW PASSED!

Attention, Discharged Soldiers!

The Act of Congress approved July 28, 1866, gives $100 additional bounty to all soldiers who enlisted for three years and were discharged by reason of expiration of service, or who were discharged for wounds received in battle and who have not received more than $100 bounty for such service. An additional bounty of $100 is also allowed to the nearest relative of soldiers who enlisted for a term of three years and who died or were killed in the service, to be paid in the following order: First, to the widow; second, to the children; third, to the father, and fourth, to the mother.

Soldiers' Widows.

By applying to W. H. Woods, of Huntingdon, Huntingdon county, Pa., you can have your pensions increased two dollars a month for each and every child you have, and when the widow has married or died, the children are entitled to the increase.

To all who have brought home the bodies of their friends who died or were killed in the service of the United States, there is a certain amount of compensation allowed you for the expenses incurred in bringing home the bodies of your friends, which you can obtain by making application to me.

Invalid Soldiers, Attention!

The act of Congress, approved June 6, 1866, gives additional pensions to the following class of persons:

Soldiers who have lost both eyes or both hands, $25 per month; who have lost both feet $20 per month; who have lost one hand or one foot, or totally disabled in the same, $15 per month.

Persons who have been deprived of their pensions in consequence of being in the civil service of the United States Government, can be restored to the pension roll by applying to me.

Fathers and mothers who were in whole or in part dependent upon their sons for support are entitled to a pension. Also brothers and sisters under sixteen years of age

All discharged soldiers who did not receive transportation to their places of enlistment when discharged, are entitled to receive it; and also all who were held as prisoners of war, and did not receive commutation of rations when released or discharged, are entitled to it.

Officers who were in the service on the 3d of March, 1865, and were discharged after the 9th of April, 1865, by applying to me can receive three months extra pay.

Soldiers of 1812!

All soldiers, or soldiers' widows, of the war of 1812, who have served two months, or been wounded or disabled in such service, if in necessitous circumstances, are entitled to an annuity of $10.

Local Bounty.

All veteran soldiers who gave their credit to districts in the State of Pennsylvania, and who received no local bounty, are entitled to receive three hundred dollars.

All persons having any of the above-mentioned claims, or any other kind of claim against the United States or State Governments, will please address me, giving full particulars, enclosing a stamp for return postage, and they will receive a prompt reply.

BROUGHER'S PATENT EXCELSIOR

BROOM HEAD OR WRAPPER.

PATENTED DECEMBER 26, 1866.

Everybody his own Broom Maker.

This head or Wrapper is constructed of Tin or Zinc, with sliding band and bolts, in connection with the centre bolt passing thro' the handle, holding it secure.

The article to which we call your attention is very simple, light and strong, weighing but SEVEN OUNCES.

The farming community have long needed an article of this character; and the high price of Brooms, together with the simplicity, durability, and practical utility of this invention makes it more saleable than any other article ever introduced.

☞ We offer borough, township, and family rights for sale on reasonable terms, in the county of Huntingdon.

For further particulars, call and see the subscribers, or address THOS. G. STRICKLER & SON,

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring,

SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs" upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent.
